

YOUNG RAYMOND GIRL MURDERED—BODY BURNED

Raymond, Nov. 5.—Charred remains of a sixteen-year-old girl were found today in the history of the most dastardly crime in the history of the country. She was murdered in cold blood at her home on Friday evening by a man, presumably Joe Black Horse, 25, a Blood Indian.

Details of Provincial and Mounted Police are scouring the countryside for Black Horse, concentrating their efforts on the Blood Reserve where it is believed he is hiding. The crime which has shocked Raymond as nothing in its history has ever done, is a most revolting one, cold-blooded to a degree. The crime was committed on Friday evening in absence of the girl victim's father in Lethbridge. The body was not discovered until Saturday night, when the charred remains were found in a straw stack on the farm of Arthur Dahl, three and one-half miles north west of town. One arm and one leg had been burned off and the body was unrecognizable but has been identified as that of the missing girl.

The Indian, Joe Black Horse, is one of five brothers, owing a coal mine about 15 miles west of Raymond. Early Friday afternoon Christian Tolstrup, the girl's father, went to Lethbridge to transact some business. On the way he met Black Horse and dickered with him for a load of coal. The Indian finally agreeing to deliver it for $6.00 a ton.

Met Girl at Farm

The Indian arrived at the Tolstrup farm later in the afternoon and waited for Tolstrup. When he did not appear, he took the coal to Hyde's blacksmith shop, where he unloaded it. Hyde offered one of the Indian's unpaid bills, receipted in payment. The Indian became indignant and reloaded the coal, taking it back to Tolstrup's farm, where he was met by Winnie Tolstrup. The girl had not enough money in the house to pay him and went to the home of her aunt, Mrs. Rudolph Tolstrup, to borrow $10. That was the last occasion upon which she was seen alive.

Armed Search Organized

Suspicion immediately attached to the Indian, Joe Black Horse. A band of police officers and citizens went to his mine and found his squaw there, but not Black Horse. Later, it developed that he had been there that morning, but had disappeared. On Saturday afternoon, some boys remembered seeing a burning stack on Dahl's farm, and the fire was investigated. Here the charred remains of Winnie Tolstrup were found, pushed 8 feet into the burning mass. The body aside from being burned was badly mutilated.

Blood-spattered Wagon Found

Fears that the Indian had abducted the girl now became a certainty in the minds of police that he had been responsible for the murder, and that chase was taken up hotly again. Evidence that he had been seen driving toward the Dahl farm at a furious pace on Friday afternoon was produced, and late on Saturday afternoon his wagon was found abandoned near the vicinity. It was spattered with blood.

Alleged Murderer Captured

Laying on the side of the trail about half a mile from the Dahl farm, with his jaw shattered by what is presumed to be a bullet wound, the Indian Two Star, as he is known among his tribe, or Black Horse was captured by Constable McWilliams, of the A.P.P., at eleven o'clock Monday night.

The constable, who had two others with him, came upon the presumed murderer of Winnie Tolstrup as they were on the hope of finding him there. How the Indian received his wound is not yet known. It is doubtful whether he shot himself or was shot by one of the parties in search of him.

Details are not at the present time available. What is taken to be a bullet wound seems to have entered on the right side of the nose, taking away the roof of the mouth and coming out from underneath the chin. The tongue was half gone, but the man was able to speak and give his name as Two Star when asked by the police.

Alleged Slayer is Dead

"Two Star," or Joe Black Horse, is dead. The alleged Indian slayer of sixteen-year-old Winnie Tolstrup, of Raymond, breathed his last at 7:45 Wednesday morning at Galt hospital.

An inquest will be held, strating Wednesday, before Coroner James Harris, chief of police.

Denies Killing Raymond Victim

Before passing away the Indian made a statement. He denied slaying the Raymond girl.

This statement was given the Herald by Inspector Harris, "D" division, A. P. P., who would, however, not give out the statement until the inquest. The statement given the police was a lengthy one.

Will Hold Post Mortem

A post mortem is to be held over the Indian's remains. The authorities will seek to learn the manner of his death, whether it was by his own hand or otherwise. The police theory is that Two Star endeavored to escape paying the penalty for the crime for which he was being hunted by blowing himself up with powder from his coal mine on the St. Mary's river in the Blood Reserve. It is understood the body will be ex-rayed to find if it contains any bullets.

Though Two Star denied any connection with the horrible crime at Raymond last Friday night, the police still hold strongly to the belief that he committed the crime and that he tried to commit suicide when he learned that he had been found out and was being hunted down.

TEACHING PATRIOTISM

Part of the business of the Youth's Companion is cultivating a fine patriotism—the love for country, not wrong, but right. The Youth's Companion started the movement for putting the flag on the schoolhouse, it formulated the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag that is repeated today in practically every schoolhouse in the United States. It has for a long time, now, been running a series of patriotic covers picturing striking events in the nation's history. Painted by the best historical illustrators in the country, they are reproduced in full color at frequent intervals on The Companion's cover. It is worth a year's subscription to The Companion to have these scenes in our building of the nation pictured so graphically. They help greatly in fixing the memory of the events related in the school histories.

The 52 issues of 1924 will be crowded with serial stories, short stories, editorials, poetry, facts and fun. Subscribe now and receive:

1. The Youth's Companion—52 issues in 1924.

2. All the remaining issues of 1923.

3. The Companion Home Calendar for 1924. All for $2.50.

AN ODE TO GIRLS

Little maid, that sickly smile
Makes you look quite imbecile.
From the look of you, I guess,
It didn't take you long to dress.

A piece of ribbon and some lace,
A box of talcum on your face,
Some near-silk hose of gaudy hues,
On each ear, a plastered shoe;

A big fat blob of padded hair,
A slinky, slouching, mincing pose
Accords with your well whitened nose.

Haven't you a mother who Takes an interest in you?
Is dancing, candy and the show,
As far as your poor brains will go?

Now, I am going to tell to you
What I think you ought to do.
Wash your perfumed, painted face
Wear some clothes, as well as lace.

Learn to make those "homemade socks,"
"Unadorned by fancy clocks."
Cover up your bony arms;
They're the smallest of your charms.

Drop the foolish little giggle;
Walk up straight and do not wiggle.
Forget the giddy, midnight whirl,
And try to be a Mother's Girl.

So long, Girls, do not cry;
Crocodile tears don't fix on I.

THE LITTLE GREEN BLADE

The west wind swept o'er the golden brown fields
In the sunny month of June,
And he bowed the heads of a few wild weeds
That were bursting into bloom.

Their colors were bright—both red and gold—
And their blossoms were fair to see,
And they laughed to scorn the first green blade
Of wheat that was to be.

"Let us choke him to death!" said a fierce looking weed
"Who waves his puny blade;
I can see no reason in this wide world
Why such a thing was made."

"I may have a use," said the little green blade,
And he struggled on—and grew—
And his brother blades beside him came—
And they grew—and they grew!

The west wind swept o'er the golden fields
When August was king of the year,
But he bent not the heads of a few
For their heads were hung in fear.

For the little green blade was a golden lance
In an array of golden spears—
And you can't always tell from the first green shoot,
How a boy will change through the years.

—D. W. Marshall.

BOARD OF TRADE PLANS GIVING BEST YET BANQUET

The regular semi-monthly executive meeting of the Macleod and District Board of Trade was held in Dr. Fanstet's office on Tuesday evening last, when various matters of importance were dealt with.

Dr. Fanstet, president of the Board, reported having interviewed the Town Council at their regular meeting, and having received the assurance of the Council that Macleod would immediately join the Tourist Association of South-eastern British Columbia and Southern Alberta, and that membership fee of $50.00 would be forwarded to the Association.

Further steps have been taken with regard to the terminal elevator and the C.N.R. grade.

On Wednesday afternoon, November 7th, the members of the Board of Trade and all interested citizens and farmers are requested to meet at 6:00 in the afternoon at the Bank of Commerce corner to accept the invitation of the Mayor and Council to inspect the power plant and intake. This will be followed at 6 o'clock in the evening by a Banquet at the Silver Grill by a Board of Trade supper at which Mayor J. W. McDonald will give an address on "Some Problems of Our Civic Administration." It is hoped the members will provide their cars for the trip to the power station. Mayor McDonald's address will without doubt evoke great interest and a record turnout is looked for at the Board of Trade supper on Wednesday, November 7th.

YOUTH'S COMPANION FOR BOY'S CONTROL

Calgary, November 6.—(Canadian Press)—At noon today returns on the Alberta referendum which were far from complete, showed a majority for clause "D," or government control, of 25,131 over clause "A" or continued prohibition, and a majority of 19,264 over clause "B" and "C" combined.

Out of 2,284 polling stations in Alberta, returns had been received from 1,199. The remaining polls largely are in more or less isolated communities and their reports will be slow in coming out. In most cases the number of votes will be small, and the net result of the unreported votes can have no considerable effect on the situation.

The result at noon was as follows: A, 46,572; B, 3,352; C, 2,525; D, 71,384.

This shows a majority for D of 24,812. The majority for D in Lethbridge constituency, however, is 1,868, or 319 more than shown in the table on which compilations were made, bringing the net majority to 25,131.

The total vote counted at noon was 128,883. There are probably not more than 25,000 votes yet to be reported.

ENTIRE COMPANY GOES TO CANADA TO FILM PICTURE

Paramount's "The Snow Bride" is Screened Amid Snowy North-ern Wastes

Equipped with a complete radio outfit to keep in touch with the outside world, Alice Brady and a company of players went into the frozen fur country of Canada, twenty miles from a railroad, to make scenes for "The Snow Bride," a Paramount picture which will be on view at the Empress theatre next Monday and Tuesday.

With a little fur post, Tem-Kip, on the shore of Lake Temiskaming as headquarters, the picture company made scenes showing the trails of the north country, fur trapping, and the activities of the men who make their living by gathering the pelts of beaver, mink and otter.

A complete French-Canadian village was built at the foot of a snow covered mountain for the purposes of the story and one of the sensational scenes to be filmed was a tremendous snow slide which buries the little town.

In order to reach this point, arrangements were made with the Canadian Pacific railroad to run a special train over thirty miles of new track from Montreal to Mattawac. From Mattawac the company, under the direction of Henry Kolker, made its way by dog train to camp Tem-Kip.

A flat-car loaded with wind machines and technical equipment for the filming of these difficult scenes was taken north from the company's Long Island studio. In addition to Miss Brady, the star, and Mr. Kolker, the director, Sonya Levien, co-author and adapter of the story, Maurice B. Flynn, Mario Majeroni, Nick Thompson, Jack Boston, Stephen Gratton, W. M. Cavanaugh, Margaret Morgan, Ned Hay, assistant Director, George Weber, cameraman, and a staff of technical men made the trip.

BERT LYELL AS AMATEUR SLEUTH

Popular Screen Star Scores In "Sherlock Brown," an Amusing Comedy

Bert Lyell in "Sherlock Brown" will be the motion picture feature at the Empress Theatre Friday and Saturday. In this Metro picture Lyell plays the role of a young clerk who has ambitions to become a great detective. His efforts to solve a mystery in which he becomes involved provide one of the most amusing pictures in which this clever star has been seen.

The action of the story hinges on the disappearance of a secret formula for the making of a deadly explosive which has been stolen from an army officer in the very house in Washington where there has just been held a conference of the biggest men in the country. Suspicion is directed against one of these men and the sister of the young lieutenant from whom the formula was stolen, goes to the home of this man and accuses him of the theft. During the altercation which results from her charges, she throws a book which crashes through the window and falls to the sidewalk at the feet of "Sherlock Brown." This zealous young man having just received his badge (in exchange for five dollars) from the Illinois Detective Agency, decides that there is a dirty work about and climbs into the house in time to assist the girl's recovery of the formula.

According to Frank Lloyd, director of "Oliver Twist," in which Jackie Coogan is soon to present little Jackie Coogan at the Empress Theatre, the reproduction of the scenes in "Field Lane" are photographically accurate. It was in this disreputable quarter of London that Oliver Twist was held captive by Fagin and his evil band. The place still exists, though much of the wickedness rampant there in Dickens' day has been wiped out. But the landmarks remain, and any student of Charles Dickens' works, familiar too, with the illustrations done by Gustave Doré, the great illustrator of Dickens' characters, may find them of interest. There will be no shadow of doubt. There will be shown (just as they were in Dickens' day) and described in Dickens' books) in the massive production seen to be offered here.

statement on the referendum: The electors of the province have apparently spoken very decisively in favor of another system of liquor administration. It is now left to the legislature to frame suitable legislation and for the government to organize the necessary machinery to carry out the will of the people as soon as that can possibly be done.

Since its inception of office, this government considered its plain duty to give the people an honest and adequate enforcement of the present act. We believe this has been done and the government faces the new issue with confidence that it has not failed in any of its duties under the present act. It will be the endeavor of all the ministers to interpret and carry into effect the wishes of the people in the same spirit of fairness and sincerity as has been shown towards the old act.

The government has, of course, had under consideration its course of action in the event of any of the four clauses carrying. Now that the decision has been reached, every attention will be given to working out the various problems of administration which will be essential—whatever form of legislation the legislature may finally settle. Apart entirely from the question of legislation there are important problems of organization which will take a little time—for example, since assuming office the government has been depleted by over $1,000,000 and immediate attention will have to be given to the important question of adequate stocks.

A session of the legislature will, of course, be necessary. A special session will not be called, but the date of the regular session will be advanced and an adjournment made if necessary to deal with regular seasonal business.

Federal Legislation Not Necessary

Ottawa, Nov. 6.—(Can. Press).—No supplementary federal legislation will be necessary to give effect to the desire for government control expressed by the electors of Alberta in the liquor referendum on Nov. 6th, according to Dominion government officials who have made a special study of prohibition laws in the various provinces. Alberta some time ago voted against importation of liquor, as did other Canadian provinces with the exception of Quebec, and British Columbia. When the vote was recorded, the Dominion government passed the necessary order-in-council. But this law did not prevent governments of provinces from importing liquor, although it made it illegal for private citizens to do so. As the situation now stands, it will be unnecessary for the Dominion government to repeal the anti-importation legislation, as the government of Alberta already has authority to import liquor and will be able to translate the mandate of the people into legislation without reference to the federal government.

BEARD MAN KISSES NITA NALDI

Nita Naldi, popular Paramount player, has been kissed for screen purposes by tall men and short; lean, fat and men of just average proportions; she has been the picture sweetheart or wife of dark-haired and of fair-headed actors, but in George Melford's Paramount picture, "You Can't Fool Your Wife," which will be on view at the Empress Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday Miss Naldi has provided a new sensation. She was kissed by a bearded man—this time it was all perfectly proper, though, for the man was her photograph husband. Paul McAllister, who is the husband in question, wears a homegrown crop of whiskers that is at once his pride and Miss Naldi's vexation. But for the sake of the story, Miss Naldi was brave and she renewed her make-up as often as her husband's dutiful kisses brushed it off. It's a hard life, this being married to a photoplay husband who is adorned by a distinguished-looking but irritating beard!

You have to dig to cultivate your mind.

THE VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

The voice of the people is heard with no uncertain intonation in the 30,000 odd majority piled up in Alberta last Monday against the continuance of the monarchy known as the Liquor Act—an act that made not only easily possible the conviction of the innocent for alleged crime, but also has degraded the morality of the province of Alberta in making criminal the acts of those in its confines who followed the tendency of natural human inclination along certain lines—in making possible as a lucrative avocation the espionage of the stool pigeon, the lowest, most degenerate of the products of modern mistakes in law-making—the degraded imitation of human semblance who has been encouraged to gain the confidence of individuals only to betray it—the latter-day Judas Iscariots—preying on human weakness.

It is hoped that publicity given the iniquitous principles of the Liquor Act by intelligent individual speakers in the recent campaign for freedom from serfdom to its shackles will be noted by provincial legislators and the forming of a new act will be approached carefully with a view to its ultimately approximating decency in its application and giving quietus to the question of its constitutionality as affecting individuals who are really the wards of government and by whom their interests and rights should be safeguarded instead of jeopardized.

THAT FATAL VEIL OF SECRECY

Unless the medical men of this continent discard that futile pretense at dignity known as "professional etiquette," but what is really a vicious and damning veil of secrecy for their profession will ride into obscurity in the course of the next generation.

There are bound to be mistakes in the career of any healer, no matter whether his method of healing be medicine, chiropractic, osteopathy or surgery. But while the publicity given the mistakes of business men writes those mistakes as items of experience into the credit side of the world's business ledger, the medical profession has no machinery for profiting by its errors.

On the contrary, the medical profession claims a sort of infallibility. To support that inferred claim, the veil of secrecy is drawn over every mistake and every failure to such an extent that progress is seriously impeded.

This secrecy is ruining the medical profession. People will no longer support a profession on blind faith. They are only willing to support the healing cults that merchandise their particular ideas and openly lay out their complete store of knowledge for the benefit of the public and the whole-sale prevention of disease.

If the medical profession would open up and turn the light on, there are a thousand aids to healthful living which they could develop for their own profession and which the public could give them.

During the next 15 years tremendous progress will be made in the science of living, particularly along the lines of a simple knowledge as to just what our bodies require in the way of fuel.

REDUCE INFANT MORTALITY

The late session of the American College of Surgeons at Chicago stressed the importance of better care of expectant mothers so that infant and maternal mortality may be reduced.

The high rate of infant mortality all over the world is the weak spot in our whole health record.

There are two essential remedies that must be applied:

1. Some system of eugenics whereby those who can never hope to have healthy offspring will be prevented from having them.
2. Training which will fit men and women for fatherhood and motherhood just as thoroughly as they are trained for any other profession.

AMERICAN PRAISE FOR BONAR LAW

Bonar Law is one of these men whose merits are not fully appreciated until it is found necessary to appoint their successors. He was the very antithesis of his predecessor in office. The few months of his administration were long enough to impress the world with the quiet greatness that lurked in him. Woodrow Wilson's message to him is only typical of what American papers are saying. They could hardly be more sincerely regretful if they were taking leave of an American President in similar circumstances. They feel that they know Bonar Law as well as his own countrymen know him, and his qualities are as greatly esteemed on this side of the Atlantic as on the other. The New York World says:

"Mr. Bonar Law did not stir men. He reassured them. He gave them no slogans, he gave them no policies. But he gave them confidence. He settled nothing of any great importance to Europe or to the Empire, but somehow he managed by the force of his personal example to restore a badly shaken faith in Parliamentary politics. For people care more about men than about measures, and they value transparent honesty and simplicity a great deal. Having dined continually on caviare and cock-tails and peacocks with Mr. Lloyd George, the British people were more than ready for a little plain living."

This is the tribute paid him by the New York Tribune:

"It is a notable tribute to Bonar Law's statesmanship that his retirement excites as deep concern abroad as it does at home. When Lloyd George was forced out of office there was a sigh of relief. He had kept Europe in hot water. His passion for theatricalism in diplomacy and his amazing inconsistencies had destroyed confidence in his leadership. Bonar Law came in with a program of tranquillization. And in the few months of his Premiership Europe made more substantial progress toward political stability and recovery than was made, perhaps, during the whole post-treaty period of Georgian spectacularism."

"Bonar Law stood out as an embodiment of common-sense moderation. He was hampered in many ways by the foreign policy which he had inherited. But he was determined to show good will. Bonar Law inspired faith because of his sincerity and steadfastness. After all, character is the greatest asset even in politics. The retiring Premier was gifted with the two sterling qualities of simplicity and modesty. Lord Beaverbrook said of him that his curious combination of intellect and character really sustained the Lloyd George coalition. When he laid down the burden of floor management in the House of Commons the coalition began to crack. Yet no drop of the sparkling wine of victory touched his lips so long as his chief was there to drain the fagon."

"Before the war leadership of this The celerity with which a fly makes a clean getaway just as you are about to swat it shows there is something in mental telegraphy after all."

sort local appreciation. Now the world knows it and it is honestly grateful when a statesman who disposes it is obliged to drop the reins of power.

The New York Times says: "Mr. Bonar Law's resignation, based on imperative reasons of health, evoked tributes which had more than a personal significance. From his political opponents—all except Mr. Lloyd George—came expressions of heartfelt regret at his being compelled to lay down the Premiership after having held it for so short a time. He was never credited with an overweening political ambition such as has afflicted many English public men of his generation, yet his rise to the leadership of his party and the headship of the Government was of a sort to satisfy the aspirations of any man. His promotion was won by substantial but not showy qualities. No one ever thought of him as a genius, but the country came to regard him as a leader at once sagacious and safe. When the taunt was flung at his Government that it was made up of men of second-class brains, he quietly replied that he would not mind that provided only they had first-class character. He himself was generally believed to have it, and the loss of the high position which he gained owing to it has sorrowful and even tragic personal aspects upon which it is needless to dwell."

The New York Herald is particularly warm in its regard for Mr. Bonar Law as the following extract attests:

"Bonar Law has never been a proud man or a selfish man; but decent ambition and profound respect for sound craftsmanship in politics have been the prime animating motives in his life. Defeat of ambition because the tools of his craft have become broken or bent must strike deeper into his honest heart than into one bolstered by pride and hardened by selfishness. Testimony to his personal worth is already ample from the lips of his own countrymen, political foes no less than political friends. Those without the

Coal Production Climbs
The year 1923 will see a new record in Alberta coal production. It is expected the total production for the year will reach 7,000,000 tons, in comparison with less than 6,000,000 last year. The production up to November 1, is 1,500,000 tons greater than the production of the same period last year. The record production previously was 1920, when 6,400,000 tons was produced. The payroll this year will, it is expected, be over $18,000,000.

IN FLANDERS' FIELDS

In Flanders' fields, the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly
Scarce heard amid the guns below.
We are the dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders' fields.

At the eleventh hour of the eleventh day in the eleventh month, 1918 there was a great silence throughout the world.
All had been forewarned that the guns of the great war would be silenced and the swords sheathed.
It was the Armistice—the cessation of hostilities in a war which had been a constant reminder for over four years.

That silence swept over the whole world and the sleeping places of the thousands upon thousands of noble souls caught its message as it passed over them.

For this purpose hundreds of thousands of poppies are manufactured by disabled soldiers and are distributed throughout the length and breadth of the land, through G. W. V. A. channels, and are taken up by a like number of citizens. The proceeds of these sales are used to assist our organisation in fulfilling a trust in respect to the dependents of our fallen and disabled comrades, on whose behalf the G.W.V.A. is ever ready to act that their interests are properly looked after.

It is well that such an order of service, with its lofty ideals, should be presented to the people of Canada on the eleventh day of the eleventh month. We live in a peaceful age.
The requirements of our day are that we may be apt to allow the on-rush of multifarious demands upon our time and attention to crowd out the glorious deeds of the past, and so make their purpose lessened in the future.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Freeman, of Barons, spent the week-end in Macleod, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. Morris.

Miss E. Proulx, who was injured several weeks since while horseback riding is reported to be progressing favorably since her operation at Holy Cross Hospital, Calgary.

Earnie and Roy Charlton, of Barons, were the guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Charlton over the week-end, returning to Barons Monday with Mr. A. C. Freeman.

Wilson Young, who has been in Galt Hospital, Lethbridge for four months receiving treatment for intestinal trouble, returned home on Tuesday of this week, and is much improved in health, although not entirely recovered.

"Biddy" the thorough-bred Irish terrier belonging to Mr. F. Morris was unfortunately run down by an automobile (without lights) on Monday night last on Main street. "Biddy" died some hours later, and having been a canine resident of Macleod for the past twelve years is greatly mourned by her friends and her loss is a source of grief to her master.

The Hutterite settlement at Stand-off have completed threshing and have over forty thousand bushels of number one wheat, with fifteen thousand bushels of oats and barley. This colony has a large crop of vegetables. They have the flour mill running, where the farmers for many miles go to have their wheat made into flour.
It will be of interest to Macleod people to know that Frank Seymour, formerly of the utilities staff at Macleod, is now on the permanent staff of the Imperial Oil Co. as engineer in the installation of their big refinery at Calgary. This is in the nature of an appreciation of Mr. Seymour's application to his advancement in his profession through applying his spare time in keeping abreast of his chosen line of endeavor through correspondence course in the school of engineering and science at Calgary, and by recommendation of which he was picked for his present position over 135 other applicants. The Imperial Oil Refinery plant at Calgary, when completed will be the most up-to-date, highly technical and scientific plant of its kind in the Domtion for present services is for in excess of what the town of Macleod could have reasonably been expected to pay him, and also promises ad-

Seward Carter died at the Macleod Hospital on Thursday, Nov. 1. He was 64 years of age, and unmarried. He had been confined to his room for the past three days. He was born in New York, U.S.A., coming to Canada in 1894, and engaged in farming. The funeral was held from the Presbyterian Church on Saturday, Nov. 3.

At the regular semi-monthly meeting of Macleod Town Council there was little but routine business transacted. It is noted however that the Medical Health Officer, Dr. Kirk, in his report advised parents who might be going to Calgary, to leave children at home, as press reports, state that a number of rooms in Calgary schools are closed on account of scarlet fever and diphtheria.

N. W. Dilatash returned on Wednesday from a hunting trip for big game on the headwaters of the North Fork. The party consisted of Mr. Dilatash and Hunter Bros., the Spring Point ranchers. They report a fair bag of big game amongst which was a bighorn ram with 17 inch circumference of horn-base and a 36 inch curl. The party's only regret seems to be their failure to bag 3 grizzlies which they trailed in the snow for miles.

SMOKING ANCIENT ART

Known Sixteen Centuries Before Sir
Walter Raleigh's Day

That tobacco was used sixteen centuries before Sir Walter Raleigh introduced it to Europe is the discovery of Dr. A. C. Krut. The statement is contained in a description which he recently gave to the British Association, regarding an ancient race who once inhabited the island of Celebes, in the Dutch East Indies. Dr. Krut has spent sixteen years on this island and is returning for another five-year period to complete his investigations of the people there who used tobacco in those far-off days.

For many years, smokers in Canada have enjoyed the use of Old Chum Smoking Tobacco. The old men of today smoked it in early manhood and their verdict is that Old Chum is as good now as it was fifty years ago.

REACH & COMPANY, LTD.

DRY GOODS, BOOTS & SHOES, CLOTHING, ETC.
GROCERIES AND PROVISIONS

Vegetables and Fruits are still plentiful. Ontario Grapes 65c per basket. Pears and Apples are very enticing. Did you ever taste Egg Plant—if not you have missed the treat of your lives. When properly cooked many take them for oysters—others a beautiful fresh egg with a wee drop of vinegar a pinch of pepper and salt, swallowed whole, or what the old-timers call a prairie chicken. But try an Egg Plant, and don't experiment in cooking one before asking the grocery department to give you the southern recipe—then it will be delicious. We can call your attention to dozens of different varieties of fruits and vegetables, but we have to divide this ad in half to give the dry goods people a show.

BARGAINS

In fact every day is Bargain Day—the goods are ticketed in the window—on the show case, or any old place to catch your eye. Odd lines of shoes and hosiery at ridiculous prices. We want to keep a clean, well-assorted stock, and this can't be done without sacrificing shop-worn goods or different lines that are slow sellers. It may be heartbreaking for us to sell for, and often below, cost—but our pain is made bearable by your pleasure and joy in saving the almighty dollar.

NEXT WEEK

we intend to take out all the old bargains that are left in the window and make a further reduction on them and clear them out—

THEN

we will make a window display of Prints, Gingham, Sa-teens, Cotton Cashmeres for school dresses, Flannellettes, Galateas, etc.; and other fabrics below cost—a poster and tickets will be in the window, reading: "Your Choice per Yard at 25c."
